Job purpose

DEPARTMENT BRIEF

BBC Monitoring (BBCM) provides news and information based on monitoring of open source media from over 150 countries in more than 70 languages. It is an important part of the BBC's newsgathering operation, with journalists based in the UK and in international bureaux, and provides content for a range of BBC platforms.

Our extensive operation enables us to provide insightful and reliable coverage of political, economic, security and media news.

Our round-the-clock monitoring of TV, radio, press, digital media and news agencies is also provided to commercial clients and the UK and US governments.

JOB PURPOSE

- To produce accurate, impartial and engaging content in a range of formats, on information and insights gained through monitoring TV, radio, newspapers, online and social media in the target area.
- To feed into the news agenda for the day, identifying ways to provide content relevant to BBCM's users.
- To come up with new and creative ways of telling stories and to integrate video, images, graphics and data into BBCM's products.
- To contribute to the development of new products/services, generating ideas for how stories can be best told to serve BBCM's users.

Key responsibilities and accountabilities

- Produce well-written and insightful content in English a variety of different written formats, based on the monitoring and translation of content from vernacular sources on political, economic, security and media themes
- Ensure all output produced adheres to the highest journalistic standards and is consistent with BBC editorial guidelines
- Actively seek feedback from BBCM's users; work with the Editorial Lead and the rest of the team to interpret this and respond in a timely manner
- Come up with original ideas and creative treatments for ongoing and emerging narratives, including data-driven products and multimedia elements
- Continually develop expert knowledge of all media types (including social media) in the coverage area, ensuring that context about the sources features in output

- Maintain a thorough understanding of the news and current affairs of the region; and act as a point of reference both internally and for all BBCM's users
- Share BBCM's insights directly with BBC audiences, including through broadcast interviews
- Work collaboratively with colleagues in BBC Monitoring (including freelance contributors) and across the BBC
